

Key Facts In The Families First Coronavirus Response Act

+ Achieves the President's goal of free testing— which builds on private sector efforts— to ensure no cost barriers for Americans seeking medically appropriate diagnostic lab tests for the coronavirus.

+ Makes good on President Trump's promise to provide financial assistance for working Americans who are “ill, quarantined, or caring for others due to coronavirus” — and it does so via a tax credit to employers rather than a new entitlement.

+ Protects seniors and those with severe medical conditions by ensuring the Social Security Administration is not running a new paid leave program for those affected by COVID-19.

+ Across the bill, relief is targeted to the duration of the COVID-19 threat. If the threat subsides, the cost will be lower, but if the threat increases, support will be available.

+ The health provisions are targeted to COVID-19 without including unrelated treatments, ensuring Hyde protections remain intact.

+ Blocked Democrats from adding new burdens on hospitals that would have overruled the CDC's science-based guidelines and prevented critical flexibility for care providers.

+ Increased access to telehealth services for new Medicare beneficiaries, helping patients with chronic conditions avoid regular trips to the doctor to lower the strain on health care facilities and providers during the coronavirus outbreak.
